Hydrogen Hub

The San Pedro Bay Port Complex is getting a boost in funding for hydrogen fuel infrastructure, and local companies are looking to benefit from that. That money - $1.2 billion for California through the public-private partnership Alliance for Renewable Clean Hydrogen Energy Systems, or Arches, the group that applied for the federal Energy Department grant - will help pay for things like shipping trucks, port equipment and fueling stations at the ports. Once that's done, one company - World Energy Management Services - is ready to start pumping hydrogen fuel directly to the ports from its Paramount facility.
